3. Make a précis of the following passage in one-third of its length and give a suitable title. (15)

One of the major problems we have to face is that of unemployment. It is a big problem, a human problem, which we cannot ignore. Yet in looking at it, it has to be remembered that merely giving some kind of occupation to a large number of people does not ultimately increase employment or lessen unemployment. Employment comes from newer and more effective means of wealth production. The whole experience and history of the past 200 years shows that it comes through the growth of technological methods. Do not imagine that we can effectively deal with the problem of unemployment without technological progress. We cannot. Every country which boasts of full employment today is a country which is technologically advanced. Every country which is not technologically advanced has unemployment or under employment. Therefore, if India is to advance, she must advance in science and technology. The fact is that our poverty is due to our backwardness in science and technology. If we remedy that backwardness we create not only wealth but also employment.

4. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

The manufacturers of armaments are not the only 'merchants of death'. To some extent, indeed, we all deserve that name. For insofar as we vote for Governments that impose tariffs and quotas, in so far as we support policies of re-armament, in so far as we consent to our country's practice of economic, political and military imperialism in so far even as we behave badly in private life, we are all doing our bit to bring the next war nearer. The responsibility of the rich and the powerful, however, is greater than that of ordinary men; for their better paid for what they do to bring war closer and they know more clearly what they are about. Less spectacularly mischievous than the armament makers, but in reality, hardly less harmful, are the speculative investors who preach imperialism because they can derive such high returns on their capital in backward countries. To the nation as a whole, its colonies may be unprofitable, and actually costly. But to the politically powerful minority of the financiers with capital to invest, of industrialists with surplus goods to dispose of, these same colonies may be sources of handsome profits. The small, but politically powerful minority of financiers and industrialists is also interested in various forms of economic imperialism. By a judicious use of their resources, the capitalists of highly industrialized nations stake out claims for themselves within nominally independent countries. Those claims are then presented as being the claims of their respective nations, and the quarrels between the various financial interests concerned become quarrels between states. The peace of the world has frequently been endangered, in order that oil magnates might grow a little richer.
